Selecting a Fabric

Most fabric manufacturer web sites begin with selecting a color range. While that is an important consideration, we prefer to begin with a discussion of the location where the fabric will be used.

- What is the environment?
- Where will the piece be located?
- How much traffic is expected?
- Is the use for a portable piece or a built-in?
- Will the piece be expose to the elements, from the weather outdoors, to the possible moisture of a shaded patio, to unfiltered sunlight through standard windows?

After these considerations, color comes into discussion.

- Are you matching a current decorating theme?
- Will this be the centerpiece of a new décor?
- What style do you prefer?
- Traditional, contemporary, floral, paisley, or plaid?
- Are you planning to fit in a narrow shading with a variety of prints?
- What kind of accents will you be interested in adding?

You may select fabric from the hundreds of samples in our showroom, or call for an appointment for us to bring samples to your home. We can help select a fabric that will achieve the maximum beauty and wear ability for the location.
